

Editorial

This year, Euclidean Press LLC celebrates 10 years of JNM@S. The Journal was launched in 2008 to meet a demand of international authors and readership for a free forum for numerical mathematics and stochastics. After 10 years of publication, we feel that we have been filling a gap in the specialized scope of this journal. We thank all editors and referees for their dedicated service and all authors for their much valued efforts. It is perhaps time to remember the blessed soul of one of our founding editors, Charles E. M. Pearce, who died in 2012. We feel we did our service to the mathematical-stochastic community to the fullest, and can be proud of it. Our periodical JNM@S is thriving and will continue publication strongly to the future ahead.
