There is no doubt in that in addition to hard work, new contributions to mathematics and stochastics of the day, require a good deal of courage. In questions of science the authority of a thousand is not worth the humble reasoning of a simple individual. Galileo Galilei (1564 – 1642).

It gives me immense pleasure to introduce the second volume of JNM@S: J. Num. Math. Stoch. (ISSN : 2151-2302). This issue contains both research articles and technical notes. We are extremely thankful to all authors and reviewers for submitting and reviewing the papers. We strongly believe that articles published in JNM@S will offer new research ideas and collaborative initiatives to tackle posing problems in the field and will eventually advance novel techniques in the rapidly developing area of numerical mathematics and stochastics.

Sincerely,
